OUR LOCATION.

The site selected for our town is centrally situated on rising ground, near the main canal, and commands a splendid view of valley, plain and mountain. Those appreciative of magnificent scenery, a mild and healthful climate, and an intelligent and progressive community in which to dwell, will find in Nucla their ideal for the founding of a good home.

Those wishing to engage in business will here find an inviting field. The speculative feature pertaining to the disposal of town lands, being entirely eliminated, the investor will not meet with a "hold-up" before he can engage in business, but may have practically all his capital to put in his stock.

Space in this little booklet forbids an enumeration of the various enterprises which this new settlement will in a short time demand and furnish abundant means to sustain. Those interested should either make a personal investigation, or correspond with the secretary, always enclosing postage to prepay reply.

Colorado Co-op's Big Bucktail Cut Will Provide Farmers More Water

Above - Louis Naslund looks over Colorado Co-op's 1,000 foot long cut as it takes water for the first time.

Water from the San Miguel River flowed through the Colorado Co-op Ditch Company's new Big Bucktail cut for the first time last Friday.

The 2,000 foot long cut, 41 feet deep at it's deepest point, cost approximately $41,000 to dig. An estimated 66,000 cubic yards of rock and dirt were moved by the contractor, C. E. Miss Construction of Montrose.

The new cut shortens the ditch by some 1,000 feet and replaces an 800 foot long tunnel that was about ready to cave in.

The project should pay for itself in a very few years by giving farmers more water during the growing season.

Meeting Announced

There will be a Quarter Back Club meeting May 23, at 8:00 p. m. in the Home Ec room of the Nucla High School.

This will be the last meeting of this school year.

BLM Acknowledges Colorado Cooperative Ditch Company Right-Of-Way Across Land

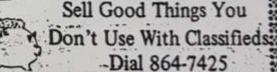

In a letter signed by Merrill Anderson of The Bureau of Land Management, the CC Ditch Company was officially recognized as having a legal right-of-way for their 17 mile ditch from the San Miguel river to the Nucla area. The Bureau of Land Management had previously stated that the ditch company "was trespassing," and that they must have "official documents showing claim to right-of-way through BLM properties."

In the recent letter, it was stated "based on documents submitted to this office, we have determined that between 1895 and 1928 a canal, known as The High Line Canal, was constructed by The Colorado Cooperative Company" involving certain described public lands..."

"We acknowledge the appropriation by Colorado Cooperative Company of a 200foot wide right-of-way across these lands."
